

A One-Day Seminar

Robotics in the Nuclear Industry Booking Form 2016

7 December 2016

The Rheged Centre, Redhills, Penrith CA11 0DQ

Booking Deadline: 30 November 2016

Outline

The Nuclear Institute is pleased to announce its first ever seminar on the Use of Robotics in the Nuclear Industry. This seminar seeks to discuss all aspects related to the current and anticipated future use of robotics technology at nuclear facilities by providing a platform for exchange of experience and information through a series of presentations, discussions and deliberation. The seminar will bring together experts and key stakeholders from government agencies, industry and academia and discuss various issues and applications related to the use of robotics technology.

Discussions will be structured around three sessions offering an Introduction and Overview of Robotics Technology in the UK; Insights into the application of available technologies by Government, regulators, operators and suppliers across operations, decommissioning, and clean-up of legacy waste; and a preview into the future of cutting edge technology and current R&D.
